“th” Practice Text*

There are three men on this earth whose thoughtful advice continues to guide me through each day. The first is the man who taught me that the path to happiness goes through a thick forest filled with thousands of thorny branches. He thought that there is no way to avoid the painful thorns. The only thing you can do is guide yourself through them with all the care in the world. Another man taught me that the path to wealth goes through a thick swath of jungle, where there are thousands of threats that can lead to your death. You have to stay alert until your final breath. The third man taught me that having faith is as important as threading, and that there is nothing that means more on this earth than that. I think that these three men were the thoriest that I've ever met.

*Voiced “th” /ð/ is underlined.
